

CABINET MEETS TO WORK ON REPLY TO THE GERMAN NOTE

Washington, July 30.—Secretary of State Lansing today stated that an official investigation of the submarine attack upon the steamship Orduna had been ordered.

The inquiry will be conducted by officials of the treasury department and was ordered following receipt of a letter at the State Department from W. G. Thompson, of Chicago, who was aboard the Orduna. Mr. Thompson's testimony related to the shelling of the Orduna after the torpedo had failed to hit the vessel.

Washington, July 30.—President Wilson and his cabinet met today in one of the most important sessions in recent months to consider the German crisis. A preliminary draft of the third note of this government on the Lusitania tragedy and Germany's submarine warfare was presented to the members.

If the cabinet approve the rough draft of the note as planned at the conference yesterday between the president and Secretary Lansing, it will be put into final shape at once and should be on its way to Berlin by Monday.

If Alabama is to get out of the one crop idea and diversify, we have to have some protection for our shipments and markets developed. We can do it under this law with the proper use of the funds for clerical help in the Department of Agriculture or the law can be strangled for the want of effective energetic administration. Farmers of Alabama, it is up to you—let us hear from you.

Every farmer who reads this please write your senator and

Very truly yours,
C. J. Higgins,

For Day Forer Victims.

Are you afflicted with that disagreeable disease commonly known as "hay fever" and which the unfortunate victims pronounce as something awful and oft-times in more pronounced language? This disagreeable ailment has its victims in every one of the states, from Maine to Mexico, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. All kinds of remedies have been offered by specialists, and some of these have, it is said, been beneficial. Many victims spend large sums periodically in visiting resorts alleged to be helpful to the patient.

Now, here's a remedy, so simple as to be almost unbelievable, yet it is given by one who claims to have suffered all kinds of tortures from the ailment and who assures fellow sufferers that it will do the proper thing: "Put a heaping teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda in a tumbler full of warm water. Fill the palm of the hand with the liquid and sniff it well up the nose and down the throat. Do this several times and repeat it during the day. Keep it up for a week or more, and the fever will be gone." M. B. Bingham, of Oxford, Md., is the prescriptionist in this instance, and he says that for over fifty years he suffered with the disease, having experienced its unpleasantness in all the phases from simple sneezing to the pneumonia stage. Mr. Bingham says if it doesn't cure entirely it will give almost instantaneous relief. —Mobile Item.

Teaching Children Patience.

Commercial Appeal.

Parents of today do not seem to appreciate the value of patience. When our grandmothers were girls this was one of the domestic arts acquired in earliest childhood. It was then that children were seen and not heard.

The first lesson in patience was taught in the dining room. The child of that day was not served until after his elders had been cared for. It was frequently the case, especially when guests were being entertained, that children had to wait until the meal was served before they were permitted to enter the dining room.

Children of that day thought little of this. In fact, they rather enjoyed the exclusive distinction of having a meal all by themselves. Today it is different. The child is impatient. It must be first served. The value of patience is little appreciated. The child thus spoiled grows in impatience. They fret over little things for impatience breeds discontent. As Rousseau aptly states, patience is bitter, but its fruit is sweet.

Imagine the process of grinding a glass of lens. There is no change. Hour after hour the movements are the same. The sleepy hum of the wheel continues. The grinder grows weary, but keeps on. Imagine weaving the yarn into a piece of tapestry. That is a still more slow and laborious operation. Without infinite patience such work could not be accomplished.

It is true, as Milton in his blindness said, "They also serve who only stand and wait."

Old age, bereavement, life's failures and disappointments call for saintly patience, but patience should be acquired in youth to be beneficial in later years.

Youth especially should learn the patience that overcomes adverse conditions. Our children should make the most of meager opportunities. They should be singing instead of sighing along toilsome ways. They should be taught to get a grip on their will power in the earliest days of childhood.

Only with infinite patience has the structure of the commonwealth been erected to its present fair proportions, and it is only by the continued patient and persistent efforts of individuals that advancement can be made to greater beauty and higher perfection.

Patience is the soul of peace. Of all the virtues it is one of the most worthy. If our children are taught to be patient while they are yet young they will grow into a more peaceful existence as the years advance.

Some person evidently in fun turned the gasoline cut-off in The Eagle's linotype machine last night. The cut off is located just outside the building and when turned off prevents the flow of gasoline to the machine and considerable time was lost this morning in getting the machine ready for work. There are so many ways of having fun and playing innocent pranks it looks like jokers would select one of these instead of those that cause annoyance and inconvenience to others.

ALICE IN THE WOODS

Example of the military discipline
shown by the Great Outfit in Europe.

They were sitting in a cafe near Washington square. On the table between them lay a "war extra" with staring headlines. The big, blond man, a typical Teuton, was talking loudly with many gestures; the small, dark man, unmistakably Gallic, listened—save for an occasional flash of the eye—with apparent calm. Two later corners at a nearby table watched them.

"Do you understand German?" asked one. "Can you tell me what the big fellow is saying?"

"I can make out most of it," replied his companion, "and I know who the men are: Johann Schulz and Pierre Dumont."

"Jote!" exclaimed the first, as the big man leaned forward and pounded the table vehemently, "he'll be pitching into the little chap next."

"Oh, no," said the other spectator, "the two agree to a dot. Johann is calling the Germans 'Lumpen' and 'Diebe' and 'verdammt Schweine' and about every other abusive name he can lay tongue to. Queer, isn't it, when he can speak hardly a word of any other language but German? But, you see, he happens to be an Alsatian. His national hymn of hate is directed accordingly. —New York Evening Post.

PROFITS OF SHEEP MEN CUT

Depredations of Dogs Cause Immense Annual Loss to the Raisers of the Animals.

Thirty-six of the states of the Union are classified as agricultural states. The United States department of agriculture has recently completed an estimate of the number of sheep killed by dogs every year. The estimate is based upon figures collected for 1913. It shows that in the 36 agricultural states the annual loss totals 107,760. Ohio's loss reaches 15,500 yearly; Indiana, 12,000; Iowa, 11,000; Kentucky, 6,600; Illinois, 1,920 and other states in proportion.

The total loss compared with the number of sheep shown by the 1910 census seems small. It is less than one per cent of the sheep population of the country. However, that sheep grower who is getting a return of five per cent on his investment, taking one year with another, is doing well. This makes a loss of one per cent loom up dangerously. Nor is the loss of one per cent from dog depredations the worst feature of the situation. The dread of what dogs may do to the flock is preventing any increase in sheep keeping. To the question, "What causes are preventing an increase in sheep raising?" 531 of 894 growers answered "Dogs."

MORE PRECIOUS THAN LIFE.

One American with the legion was telling me of a zouave battalion that was fighting in the same part of the line with him, and at a charge of the zouaves the commandant suddenly cried out, "Lie down," as a hail of German shells came over them. They all dropped but one.

"Nom de Dieu, lie down!" the lieutenant colonel called out, furiously, to the one man.

This zouave tapped his large pocket and called back to his chief: "Mon colonel, I can't! I've got a quart bottle full of wine in here and it hasn't any cork in it."—Boston Journal.

FINE POINT OF ENGINEERING

Removable Work Done on Williamsburg Bridge is Expected to Be Without Precedent.

In re-engineering the Williamsburg bridge at New York, to strengthen it for the increasing volume of traffic it is being made to carry, a remarkable piece of engineering work was accomplished recently.

This consisted of removing a ten-inch bridge pin and substituting for it a 13-inch pin, a feat believed unprecedented. An especially built motor-driven drilling machine was attached to the bottom chord of the structure with its cutting arbor lined with the pin. The metal which the boring bar had to pass through had a thickness of approximately 24 inches, while the volume of steel to be bored out amounted to nearly a cubic foot.

The work involved the removal of the old pin, the enlargement of the pin bore from 10 to 13 inches, and the insertion of the larger piece. The task was made additionally difficult on account of the necessity of opening the bridge to traffic just as quickly as possible, and also for the reason that the only connection between the main and land spans, during the time the pin was out, was a temporary wind chord.—Popular Mechanics.

HAS SYMPATHY OF THOUSAND

Sobs and Tears Plaintful as Vast Throng Sees Boy's Feet Removed by Surgeon.

With a silent, awestricken and heart-touched gallery of more than 1,000 persons, forming a sort of amphitheater about a surgeon and his operating table, in the DeWolfe street plaza of the Williamsburg bridge at New York, Seymour Richman, eight years old, was supported by several men while Doctor Lemeros, of the Gouverneur hospital, amputated his foot. It had been crushed between the driving chain and the sprocket wheel of an automobile truck.

Although the police reserves were out, they had no disorder to contend with. Every heart beat for the little fellow, who heroically bore up under the ordeal, and who only asked, when told that the foot must be cut off at once, that his mother be sent for.

Every window in a hundred tenements was filled with the faces of women and children, who looked down upon the spectacle, and the only noises in the crowd were the sighs and sobs of these as they watched the surgeon work beneath a brilliant arc light at the corner.

INDIVIDUAL ARMOR.

If wars are to continue in the world it is not improbable that the old fashion of appareling the soldier in armor will again return. A very thin plate of steel can now be constructed so as to be astonishingly resistant. If the chest and face could be protected, the wounds on the rest of the body could be pretty well taken care of by the surgeons. In very recent wars men fought standing up, spurning advice to take cover. Now they are all down in trenches, and they are setting spades in the ground before their faces. It is conceivable that the best great war will see a return to individual armor. This would greatly increase the cost of killing a man, the direction in which all the agencies of modern war have long been tending. And it is highly desirable that this should be so.

REDS OF 6500 IMPRESSION

Why Americans Should Be Grateful in the Presence of the Immigrant "Just Over"

Be careful what you do or say in the presence of the "new American." Your every act may be reported to some family in far-off Italy, or Poland, and reported by that family to others. And how you dress and how you do your hair may be reported, too, the style copied by no one knows how many pretty Italian girls.

All this, and other information concerning American people and their customs is carried abroad by means of the millions of letters sent to the old countries from this country each year. Residents of foreign countries get much of their information concerning the United States from these letters, written, many of them, by members of their own families who have come to these shores. And these "new Americans," who write the letters, gain their impressions of the "new country" from observing the people about them and talking with those with whom they come in contact. Thus, in a way, we are all "foreign missionaries," and it behooves us to be on our good behavior so that the people of other lands who may themselves be planning to come here shall hear only good reports.

This point opens up a new and interesting line of thought in connection with the general subject of immigration and the question of what our attitude toward the immigrant shall be.—Waterbury American.

HAPPENINGS IN Ashford, Alabama And Surrounding Territory

Dothan Eagle Bureau—Fellows and Forresters' Store, Main St.

Edited By Geo. W. Collins

Ashford Locals

Under the protective guidance of Mrs. Poka Harrison, teacher of the little people's Sunday School class, at the Methodist church here, quite a grand outing was extended to her little boys and girls.

The class hied away in the early morning of yesterday to the woods in front of the home of Brother B. F. Murdock, where they enjoyed many delicacies especially prepared for the occasion. And, too, the ample arrangements that had been so abundantly provided were considerably augmented by that good man, Murdock, who lavishly provided watermelons and peaches which added much to the enjoyment of the occasion, and for which Mrs. Harrison desires to extend her profound thanks.

And we will further add that on many occasions in the past we have known newspaper men that liked peaches, and they as a rule are the most grateful set for small favors of any class of people with which we are conversant.

We are requested by the Baptist Ladies Aid Society to say to the public that on next Friday night, at the new Bush building, there will be an entertainment given in the interest of the Baptist church. The arrangements will be ample for a most excellent occasion and everybody is invited.

We are requested to say that one of the special features of the affair will be a song service rendered by the Messrs. Berry and Sharp, who are to teach here at an early date.

This office desires to especially stress this feature of the occasion as it has been given up by all our citizens that have been favored with an opportunity to hear these two young men sing that they have never heard them equalled.

We say come; those good ladies say come, so why not come.

James Port Fordham and V. M. Thomas, and a Mr. Brown passed through our city today en route for Malone, Fla., where they go on a general outing and for real pleasure.

About twenty of Ashford's most popular fraternal order, the Sons of Rest, went to Posey yesterday to enjoy the advantages offered by one of the finest bathing pools in the county.

Mrs. Mary Dye, daughter of W. H. Robinson, visited her parents here yesterday.

Miss Lennie Strickland, of Dothan, is visiting Miss Eunice Williams on Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fellows visited our city today.

Esquire N. S. Fellows made his usual visit to our office yesterday.

Watermelon landing is the order of the day here this week.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally No body Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mossy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

L. Wilk of Houston, Tex., a former Dothan citizen arrived last night to visit relatives.

JULY.

Imperial month, in stately languor

Come into your waiting throne; Let us crown you with luscious beauty

With rich roses fully blown, Put into your hand the scepter

Of the summer glowing queen, Dressed in robes of gorgeous color,

Dazzling with a golden sheen.

No fair maiden here is coming With a shy and tender air, With the young fresh buds about her,

And green leaves twined in her hair,

But a woman whose bright blooming

Is a rich and perfect flower, Half-bewitching, wholly ruling.

Changing moods with every hour.

Here are suns of royal splendor, Here are storms of passion grand;

Here not to entreat us gently, But with power to command.

As her spell she casts upon us, Putting energy quite by,

In a lazy adoration, Pay we homage to July.

—Baltimore American.
